Forecast For Northwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 07 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
A dry evening but turning wet and windy by dawn.

This Evening and Tonight:
A dry and clear evening, with a chance of patchy frost in the east. Overnight, winds will strengthen with heavy rain reaching the southwest by dawn. Temperatures recovering after the early dip. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
A very wet and windy day, especially in the morning with a risk of coastal gales for a time. Rain becoming more confined to west-facing hills later in the day. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Nights become milder but remaining windy and unsettled with showers or longer spells of rain throughout. Gales are possible in coastal areas at times.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.